LABOR AND CAPITAL TO HELP ROOSEVELT

PRESIDENT CALLS LEADERS INTO CONFERENCE OVER CARRYING OUT OF POLICIES.

WASHINGTON, March 12.—Tired of what he is declared to regard as a donothing Congress, President Roosevelt has summoned into conference at the White House banker, labor leader, economist, lawyer and members of his Cabinet to devise plans to bring about legislation he recommended in his messages to the Sixtieth Congress. What the President aims at particularly is the enactment of laws that will permit the further carrying out of his policies.

To bring about this result President Roosevelt has called to his aid Francis Lynde Stetson, of J. P. Morgan & Co.; Seth Low, representing the Civic Federation; Samuel Compers, president of the American Federation of Labor; and Victor Morawetz, general counsel for the Santa Fe Railroad. They conferred with him and Secretary Root and Garfield, Attorney General Bonaparte and Commissioner of Corporations Smith Wednesday night, and continued their deliberations today with the Cabinet members. The topics particularly under discussion were:

To amend the Sherman act along the line frequently recommended by the President, to permit railroads to form traffic pools, subject to approval or disapproval by the Commerce Commission.

A bill to repair the damage to the Erdman act by the recent decision of the Supreme Court in the Adair case and to exempt labor organizations from classification as conspiracies in restraint of trade, thus repairing the damage done to them by the Supreme Court decision in the Danbury hatter's case.

A bill covering the Federal licensing of interstate corporations. This bill will provide for the organization of industrial combinations on conditions of their submission to certain supervision by the commissioner of corporations.

Either this bill or another to be drawn will deal with the matter of stock and bond issues by interstate corporations, in an effort to control overcapitalization.

The President is determined to have his views enacted into law by this Congress at this session, or at an extra session to be called just as soon as this session adjourns. Some of his closest advisers have urged him to let it be known that he will keep Congress at work all summer if necessary. He has taken kindly to this advice.

Mr. Roosevelt feels that the present House was elected on a square promise to the country to put through such legislation through the wide use that was made in the last Congress campaign of the letter he wrote to Representative Watson, of Indiana, in which he appealed to the country for election of a Republican House in order to continue the programme begun by the Hepburn law.

The conferences have so cleared the way that drafts of the bills probably will be ready within a week or ten days. It is likely that the bills will be introduced in the House by Representative Hepburn, and in the Senate by Senator Dooliver, who has had a hand in preparing them and was a leading factor in the Administration fight for the rate law.

THE TATSU SETTLEMENT.

PEKIN, March 16.—The full terms under which the case of the Tatsu, the Japanese steamer that was seized by China in February on the allegation that she was conveying arms and ammunition to the Chinese revolutionists, has been settled, are as follows:

1. China agrees to punish the officers who lowered the Japanese flag on the Tatsu and to send a warship to the place where the vessel was seized to fire a salute as the Japanese flag is rehoisted.

2. The Tatsu is to be released at once.

3. China will purchase the arms and ammunition seized.

4. She will punish the officers who committed this breach against international usage.

5. The viceroy of Canton will settle the amount of demurrage for the retention of the steamer after consultation with the Japanese consul and, finally, Japan agrees to exercise extra vigilance against her subjects in the matter of smuggling arms into China.

TOBACCO SHOP REPARTEE.

"You look worried," remarked the snuff-box.

"And I have cause to be," sighed the long plug of navy; "it won't be long before I am cut up."

"Oh, that's nothing, my friend. It won't be long before I am plucked."

DON'T NEGLECT A COLD.

Perhaps you believe you will be able to throw off every cold you contract.

You may have done so many times before, and yet the very next cold may develop into pneumonia. You cannot always tell the condition of your system, and it is better to take precaution than to risk this dangerous disease.

QUARANTINE IS INSPECTED

DR. COFER CONDUCTS A PARTY OF CHAMBER OF COMMERCE ALL OVER THE PLACE.

Dr. L. E. Cofer chief of the United States Public Health and Marine Hospital Service here, yesterday afternoon personally conducted a party of leading citizens over the works on wharf and island of the little quarantine world across the stream at the city's foot.

What was seen was to a great extent a revelation to those invited, for no one had guessed the many appliances and the careful system in use and in vogue for the safeguarding of the community from imported disease.

President Morgan of the Chamber of Commerce had issued invitations and those who went were Governor W. F. Frear, W. M. Giffard, B. F. Dillingham, J. M. Dowsett, Paul R. Isenberg, F. J. Lowrey, E. E. Paxton, G. H. Robertson, G. W. Smith, Collector E. R. Stackable, F. L. Waldron and H. P. Wood.

The foot of Fort street was left about 3 o'clock, in a launch, and the quarantine wharf was the first inspected, Dr. Cofer explaining all that was to be seen and Dr. James meeting the party at the wharf and also demonstrating the utilities and precautions which are established under the yellow flag.

Those who were of the party included the committee of the Chamber of Commerce interested in health and quarantine affairs. Dr. James, being in charge of the station, did everything he could to enlighten the observers and make their visit pleasant, seconding Dr. Cofer's kindly attentions.

Appliances for the disinfecting of vessels at the quarantine wharf excited much interest. Here also is the gear for disinfecting passengers, for fumigating or disinfecting their clothes and baggage, for bathing their bodies by showers from aloft and aside. There are other conveniences of the latest contrivance, for reaching the recesses of holds, now being installed. Three cylindrical retorts, into which articles to be disinfected are conveyed on trucks, are in use. Fumes from these are exhausted before the retorts are opened.

Passing along the pier leading from the wharf to the quarantine island the visitors remarked the quantity of oil on the water and on the piles, an illustration of the amount let into the harbor by oil ships.

It was found that quarantine island was much beyond what was expected in the matter of improvements. It has been raised much above high tide by dredgings from improved sections of the harbor and a concrete wall goes around the little isle. Under the direction of Dr. James many trees have been planted, but the doctor wishes for cocoanuts, believing that these trees will give the island an inviting appearance. Paul Isenberg promises to donate a good number of these ornamental trees.

On this island there are accommodations for 80 first cabin passengers, 300 European steerage, 600 Orientals and 1,500 soldiers, tent platforms being provided for the latter. Camp kitchens, laundries, isolation hospitals, hospitals for non-contagious diseases, with all their necessary conveniences, are established. Everything is so constructed and arranged as to be easy to keep perfectly sanitary. The buildings are frame and rest on concrete.

A great deal is still needed, however, and congress has been asked for electric lights, roads, a better water supply and additional and better buildings.

The station's regular force has done what it could in the way of roads and Dr. James is constructing a short cut to the mainland, near the railroad wharves, by removing surface soil from the coral and filling in the holes in the hard bed for wagons, though when the tide is up the roadway is over a foot under water.

Lunch was served in the dining room of the cabin passengers' quarters and what had been seen was discussed, the general opinion being that the local Federal health authorities had accomplished splendid and effective work with the material and funds allowed.

ROCKEFELLER AN ABSTAINER.

Oil Magnate Says He Never Touched Whiskey.

AUGUSTA, Ga., March 14.—"I am an old man, but I am glad to say that I never touched whiskey."

John D. Rockefeller made this statement today and talked freely on the subject of prohibition. He regards it "as a good thing to keep liquor away from the negroes and lower classes of whites."

Mr. Rockefeller believes that the prohibition sentiment is growing not only in this country, but in England as well. It is his belief that the wave of anti-liquor sentiment is steadily gaining throughout the United States.

MR. WOOLLEY GOING AWAY

A. L. C. ATKINSON HIS CHOSEN SUCCESSOR AS SUPERINTENDENT OF THE LEAGUE.

The endorsement of A. L. C. Atkinson to succeed John G. Woolley as the superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League took place at a largely attended meeting held in the Y. M. C. A. building last night. The motion was made by J. P. Cooke and seconded by Ed. Towse, who was followed by Dr. Scudder, Theodore Richards and John G. Woolley, all of whom made speeches which were most complimentary to Mr. Atkinson.

Woolley told of meeting Atkinson, whose office was near his, and after many long talks, converting him to the principle which he will now represent the League in. He stated that, in regard to himself, he would leave for the mainland as soon as the duties of the office should be taken up by someone else.

In speaking of the present liquor law, Woolley stated that he believed that it was fundamentally bad, but a great improvement on the old law and the liquor interests were already preparing to fight for its repeal. He complimented the liquor commissioners for their work and the Governor for the class of men whom he had appointed.

The bringing of the local brewery under the direct supervision of the liquor commissioners, was one of the matters which Woolley called attention to and he attacked that institution with great severity. He spoke of the likelihood that some Congressional action to regulate the liquor traffic here might soon be expected and touched only on local option as calculated to bring this about. In speaking of his attitude toward "blind pigs" he said:

"I have heard some criticisms of my superintendency, on the ground that I refrained from taking part in the prosecution of 'blind pigs.' But I am not a pig-chaser. The 'blind pig' is merely the runt of the license litter, and where half a hundred saloons are as lawless as public schools, even the police are ashamed to run after the slippery swine that is a market for some paltry pints of wine. This league does not exist to punish people, but to teach and persuade them not to establish public incubators of lawlessness. I am a lion-hunter, and have been stalking the nob-

VOLCANO IS LIVELY ANOTHER RAISED MONEY ORDER

HILO, April 2.—The usual activity up at the Volcano has continued during the past week the Tribune says, and visitors to the pit of Halemaumau bring down vivid stories of the surging flood of lava which is lashing itself into frenzy in that terrible abyss. Every night parties have descended to the center of the crater and it is very far from being a joke to add that many of the more nervously constituted took but one glimpse and, despite the magnificence of the sight, wished to get away. That there is no danger is assured, but to people unused to living next door to a live volcano the sight is disturbing.

On Saturday night there was a remarkable display. During the afternoon, it seems, the lava flood, which had been rising steadily, suddenly dropped for over a hundred feet, as nearly as could be guessed. In the evening, however, Madame Pele awakened and reasserted herself. The fiery flood came up with a rush and fountain after fountain of living fire sprang high in the air. The heat was intense and the visitors had to stand well to windward in order to get a view.

JOHN KAPU DETECTED AT NAA-LEHU IN VERY CLUMSY ATTEMPT TO BEAT UNCLE SAM.

HILO, April 2.—Post Office Inspector F. J. Hare was in town last week in connection with another case of raising a postal order, a crime which seems to have become epidemic here on Hawaii.

John Kapu, at present in jail awaiting trial at the Kailua term on a charge of robbing Greenwell's store, is the man suspected of the act, which was about as clumsy an attempt at fraud as could be imagined.

Kapu went to the post office at Kealahou and there bought an order for $10 payable to "Johnny Sam" at Naahehu. Later a man, identified as Kapu, appeared at the Naahehu office and said that he was "Johnny Sam." He had the order with him but it had been raised from $10 to $100 by the simple process of adding an "o" to the ten. The addition was made with an indelible pencil, not with ink which corresponded with that of the order and the written words: "Ten dollars" in the body of the order were not changed at all. These discrepancies were pointed out to "Johnny Sam" by the postmistress but he still insisted that he wanted a hundred dollars. He did not get the money, the raised order being confiscated and sent to Honolulu. Meanwhile Kapu seems to have turned his attention to other branches of industry and was caught in the attempt at burglary before the post office people could get after him.

From present appearances "Kapu" is not what the yawning jail doors will say to John when the different Circuit and Federal courts get through with him.—Tribune.

"I imagine that finger must have started out as a baseball player."

"What makes you think that?"

"The way he pitches his voice."

DR. MILES' ANTI-PAIN PILLS

are cheap, convenient, certain and harmless. Cheap, as one dose is usually sufficient to relieve the pain.

Convenient, being little tablets, that you can always carry, and take as you need a lozenge. Certain, because they cure by soothing the irritated nerves. Harmless, as they contain no harmful drugs, 25 doses, 25 cents. Never sold in bulk.
